Whatever Happened To 'Greene Acres'?

By Joe Grund

Up until several weeks ago the rifle club at Saint Leo was allowed to practice firing on a piece of property east of the college on State Road 52A. This property is commonly known by those familiar with the area as "Green Acres."

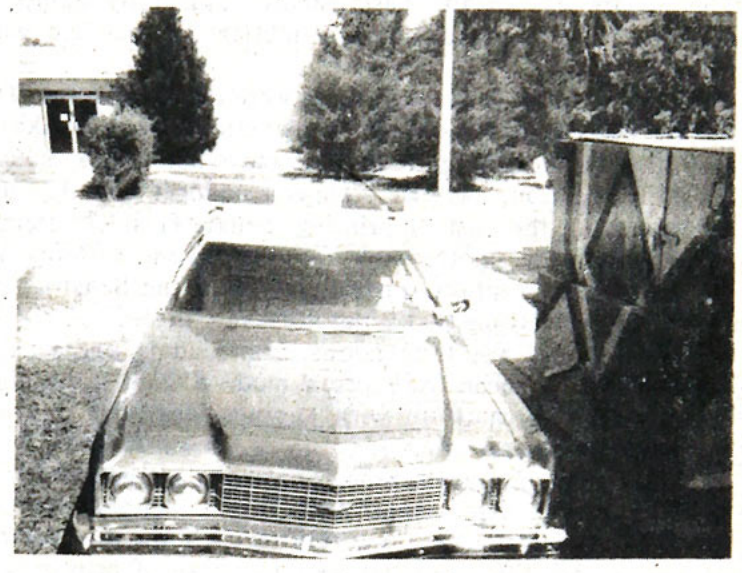
The name, "Green Acres," arose because it is either owned or controlled by Raleigh Greene, the former chairman of the Board of Trustees. Several years ago, when Pat Seery was the President of the student body, the property was offered to student organizations for their own private use. The school was willing to allow the fraternities a place for picnicking, beer drinking and other miscellaneous party functions. Facilities were needed, however, and Mr. James Christiansen, registrar of the college, contacted a company which designed and blueprinted geodesic domes. The cost of the domes was approximately $500. Christainsen spoke with Pat Seery about constructing domes on the property and asked him if he'd like to have a look at the land. They did and Pat didn't get more than twenty yards onto the property, when he cried, "there's bugs here." That was the end of that project, according to Christiansen.

At the beginning of last semester there was much talk about a riding academy being established on the "Green Acres" property. Colonel Kimball, who owned and ran Tampa Downs, a riding stable, was going to bring his training staff, horses and equipment to "Green Acres." An arena and stables were going to be constructed to board three thouroughbreds and other horses owned by Kimball. It was thought by Dr. Southard and Norm Kaye that students would enroll in horsemanship and that this feature would attract more students to come to Saint Leo. A letter was written to Colonel Kimball supporting thy plan, but Kimball decided to relocate his stables in Sarasota instead, for reasons which seem to be unavailable. This was the end of the Saint Leo Riding Academy and the horsemanship course offered by the college.

Within the last six months the property has mainly been used as a dump. There is construction refuse and other garbage littered throughout the property. The land has been fenced off and the entrance is locked. The rifle club was firing out there, but now cattle are grazing and the rifle club is not allowed to fire there any more.

Dr. Southard, when asked about the property, explained that he was leasing the land from Raleigh Greene to graze cattle on. He said the gun club would have another place at which to practice in the future.

Recently a Monarch reporter called the tax assessor's office and learned that the property was in the name of Liz Prescott and the tax bill was sent to the First National Bank of St. Petersburg. The bank was contacted and said there was no property in the name of Prescott. The tax assessor was called back and a legal description was obtained. The bank was called again and a woman in the trust department said the land under the legal description given was held by the bank in trust. The name of the owner could not be disclosed by the bank and could only be corresponded with via the bank. It was later learned that the property was being leased from Raleigh Greene and that he is a board member of the First National Bank of St. Petersburg. Further developments will be reported in next week's issue of the Monarch.



Does Virgil deserve a ticket? It may seem so, but according to the Saint Leo Security guard, it is O.K. for him to park there because he is transporting a large amount of money to the finance office and fears getting robbed. Anyway, says Virgil, "I'm not blocking the fire lane and that's what I give tickets for."

Students Busted In Pre-Dawn Police Action

Richard Mente

Monday morning at 6:15 three Saint Leo students and one former student were arrested by Saint Leo Police. Three of the students were charged with possession of marijuana and narcotic paraphernalia, while one student was charged only with having narcotic paraphernalia. Search warrants issued by the State's Attorney Office were presented to the students at their various dorm residences in Lee Marvin Hall.

The students were arraigned in Pasco County Circuit Court on Monday afternoon and three were released on $5,000 bond and the other on $2,500 bond. No court date has yet been set. Two students were represented by their own attorneys, while two others had counsel from the public defenders office.

According to Saint Leo Police Lt. Bruce Schmelter, "I don't see any further busts at the present time and even if I did I wouldn't tell you." Saint Leo Police commented that the results are all part of an investigation led by their department. Schmelter also commented, "It's all part of our case," when asked for details of the arrests and the department's investigation.

College Wide Hiring Freeze In Effect

By Jerry Mulligan

Because of the hard economic times, a temporary hiring freeze has been instituted at Saint Leo. According to Dr. Robert Peterson, Vice President of Academic Affairs, the freeze has been instituted to help dent this year's projected $200,000 deficit.

The freeze became effective some time last week. Mr. Robert Richmond, Vice President of Business Affairs, said the freeze is on until the budget for next year is approved. Mr. Louis O'Gorman, Vice President of Student Affairs, says he believes the freeze in on until July 1. Peterson said no date has been set to end the freeze.

Although two departmens, Finance and Educational Services, hired new secretaries this semester, the freeze is now directly affecting other areas. Mrs. Liz Maguire, Director of Counseling and Placement, lost her secretary, Barbara Dubose, last week when Dubose moved to Ocala. Father Dennis of Admissions has also lost a secretary.

The hardest hit area is Creative Teaching where secretary Frankie Steele is moving on to another job. Steele presently is the secretary to nine teachers in the education department, Dr. Gmuer, Dr. Stanfield, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Zepeda, Dr. Reardon, Mrs. Swanson and four part timers.

Frankie deals with the State Department and believes it may be too much for the teachers to handle.

Peterson says he is interested in retaining all programs while reducing the budget. If a department needs help, something will be worked out.

SPECIAL ISSUE...

THE MONARCH WILL PUBLISH A SPECIAL STUDENT ELECTION ISSUE THIS COMING MONDAY....

Student Senate Can Come Through If Given The Opportunity

In some quarters of the college community the Student Government Association is seen as something less than effective or creative in its approach to solving problems. This opinion is somewhat premature, however, when one considers last week's Senate meeting.

It is the usual practice for the Senate to be confronted with a problem and, in the same breath, a solution, all of which have been pre-determined before the Senate meets. The Senate has in the past usually applied its stamp of approval or disapproval and the matter was handled with great dispatch.

Last Thursday, however, things were quite different. The Senate was asked to consider what action it would take to help this publication produce the customary SGA Special Election Edition, as the paper's budget would not accommodate the cost of printing. Senate President Dennis Mullen put the matter up for discussion, offering no pre-established solution. Instead he asked the Senators for their ideas, something that is not done very often.

The response was tremendous. Immediately one senator who does not speak very often made a suggestion, then another senator came up with another idea, and this was followed by several other suggestions. The discussion went back and forth around the senate, involving a large number of senators in the discussions. After much deliberation and serious consideration, the solution reached was to have the SGA pay the difference between the cost of printing the Monarch and the monies obtained from advertisements by candidates for SGA offices.

The only regret I take away from that meeting, not as editor of the paper or as a senator, but as a student, is that it's a damn shame the students who make up the senate weren't asked earlier in the year to come up with answers to the problems and crises that have and still do face the community. Had they been asked earlier, the senate leadership would have had an easier time in trying to get their proposals and programs implemented. As a community, I think we can look upon the SGA and other student organizations with a renewed sense that tomorrow will be a better day because we helped to make it that way.

If students will get out and listen to the people running for SGA and get down to the polls next week and vote, next year may be our year, the year in which the students take themselves seriously and say, "Yes." The shape of the coming year is on the horizon, but it will soon be here and, as one student, I think we, as a group, will make it one to be proud of.

The Use Of Power

By Jerry Mulligan

In the past few years the people of America have watched an unbelievable power story unwind. Most of those who participated in the charades are now serving time or running the lecture tour circuit.

We have watched an entire power structure crumble before our eyes. Some believe that this event was out of the ordinary, but most of us know it was not.

Power is something that most human beings do not know how to handle. In America a group of people have been put into the position of power holders. They are the same in politics, business, military, and education. If one can perform well in one of these categories, it is assumed that he or she will perform well in all areas.

But we have never defined what is the correct way to handle power. Is it correct to use power to run an organization without regard for its members? Is it correct to use power for personal gain?

In America power is not questioned unless a problem arises. The last group of nationwide power holders held on too tight. Their many outside interests finally caught up to them and it was made known that the country was being run like a business, to the profit of those in power.

At Saint Leo, it has become known that there, too, is a power problem. People in all positions are questioning the reasoning, purpose and sincerity of others. Some are being condemned for trying to close down the college. Many, faculty, students and administrators alike, are using the power structure of Saint Leo to step into a higher position elsewhere.

It is ridiculous for any one person to stand up and point accusing fingers at anyone else. But questions should be considered. In most cases it would be hard to say that any student was overusing the college's power. Financially students pay a lot for their education. What is interesting is that only 39 per cent (73-74 figures) of a student's tuition is used for his or her actual academic education.

But if a student behaves well, he can still use the influence of the college to secure a position later on. Recommendations from those who hold power often open other doors of power.

When one considers the faculty and the idea of power, the first reaction is to become hysterical. But one should consider the situation. It is actually another form of power that has destroyed any kind of unity within the faculty. It is a game for some of us to guess the next faculty member that will jump the line and join the administration. The proposition is inviting.

In a time of economic depression, it is often considered too much for a faculty member to speak out, in fear of losing a job from a vindictive power holder. It would seem elementary that if a group of 75 people got together with the same interests they could form a power group. It is ironic that many of those who are our teachers, those who are leaders in the academic community, are afraid to make a stand for their own rights.

To those in the college community, it is obvious that the administration's motives are questioned the most. At Saint Leo they hold all the power. That power for a long time has been working behind closed doors. It is hard to come to any conclusion about the administration's motivations, as they are hidden behind the bureaucracy and their petty rules. A recent example is when the president of SGA tried to get a vote and a seat on the Board of Trustees. He was told he could not because he was an employee of the Board and no employee of the Board could sit in and vote. The Board clamors about not getting enough student ideas, yet they insist on being boggled down by their own rules.

All the people in this community should start opening up and answering some questions for themselves. Everyone should know the answers because they affect us all.

What Happened To Student Involvement At St. Leo?

By Liz Shonter

In spite of repeated efforts by student leaders to spark wider interest in student activities, student involvement is still dropping as the second semester of the 74-75 school year comes to a close. The magic question, why?

The Student Government Association has been working hard this semester on such things as the traffic handbook, the awards banquet and student elections, but the size of the senate decreased by about 15 people over the Christmas break.

SGA Vice President Dennis Mullen attributes the drop to many factors, one of which is the deactivation of the Inter Fraternity Council. His comment was that when the IFC was deactivated most activities went off campus and students became more apathetic.

The SGA also lost some of its members to the College Union Board. This, too, is having problems, as the CUB often cannot meet because of lack of quorum.

Have students lost interest in CUB and SGA? Other reasons have been suggested: grades, involvement in sports, and lack of time. But these answers still are inadequate.

Second semester every year involves a drop-off in student participation. The result is that the same old people are left to do things. Organizations are functioning, but are handicapped by a lack of feedback. Although hypothetical answers are available, no definite answers are.

Appproximately nine elected positions were filled by acclamation in the soon to be run SGA, CUB, Campus Court, and Class Officer elections. None of those positons won by acclamation were scholarship positions. Perhaps student leaders need more of an incentive. They probably deserve it.

Some people will always take advantage of a good situation. But for the most part, those student leaders who receive scholarships have been highly responsive in their role. Monarch editors write, SGA officers are available when needed. Certain people who are unpaid do their jobs well, but perhaps these leaders deserve more.

Excepting a few "old faithfuls," those student leaders who have remained on a par, workwise, with last semester receive some scholarship aid for their efforts. Perhaps, if scholarships could be extended to other areas, more students would assume their responsibilities regularly.

St. Leo Police Harass Students

Liz Shonter

An incident took place Saturday, March 8, in which one student and one graduate of Saint Leo were followed from bar to bar by members of the Saint Leo Police force, the county Sheriff's Department, and one undercover narcotics agent working with the Sheriff's Department. The two individuals were preparing to leave the Sandspur, when they saw the policeman on duty call in on a walkie talkie to a police car. As they walked to their car, the students were greeted by two police cars.

The students walked to the San Ann Bar and were followed by the agents. They proceeded to return to the Sandspur and were followed by the undercover agents. When the students began to leave the Sandspur, they had to walk by the table at which the agents were seated. As they walked by, a young lady who is employed in an office at Saint Leo put her leg in front of one of the individuals and attempted to trip him. His reply, "You tried to trip me," caused him once again to be followed to the Headliner, this time driven by a new party to the Headliner. He, too, was amazed at the obvious harrassment to himself and the other occupants of the car.

Different reasons were suggested by reliable sources as to why the lawmen were acting as they were. One source said that they were trying to break the county record for DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests. Another suggested that the narcotic agent was looking for a Saint Leo bust. What the officers were doing is not as important as why they were doing it.

Since we live in a rural area, there often isn't much to do on a Saturday night, but when two residents of Pasco County, one who works in the area (often as a substitute teacher) and the other who has resided here for four years are subjected to harrassment for no reason at all, some questions need to be asked. These students are involved in the Big Brother programs and have also become involved in many public service projects in the area. Yet, they were harrassed for no obvious reason by members of an agency which their federal taxes help to finance.

Saint Leo needs a police force, one that does its job. No one would praise a worthwhile organization more than the person writing this editorial. The Saint Leo Police Force has generally been quite fair in its treatment of students. But last Night's incident was a gross miscalculation on someone's part. When a resident of Pasco County cannot, on a Saturday night, go to different bars without being followed every step of the way by police officers, then someone ought to begin asking questions.

If students, residents and the police force are to work together some of the time, and against each other some of the time, the whole community is in trouble. My question to the undercover narcotic agent, the police officer on duty at the Sandspur, and those on duty at the Saint Leo Police Force is "Just what was the problem?" Your response is awaited.

Is The College Union Board Really Making It ?

By John Gallagher

The College Union Board, now nearly one semester old, has lost the interest of the student body and that of its own elected representatives. After last week's deadline for running for elected offices had passed, only one person intends to run for the College Union Board. This person is the only one on the CUB who is running for re-election. Needless to say, she won by acclamation. Now there remain nearly a dozen empty seats yet to be filled by whomever is interested in the job.

The CUB began to falter soon after it began, as most of its non-elected members stopped attending the meetings. The Board is supposed to be made up of three elected students from each class, one elected student from the division of Fine Arts, one elected faculty member, the chairperson of the division of Fine Arts, the Social Coordinator, the President of the SGA, the Vice President of Student Affairs, and the manager of the Cage. It is a rare occasion when one will find the student from Fine Arts, the chairperson from the Fine Arts division, the Vice President of Student Affairs or the Cage manager in attendance.

It is an even rarer occasion when the CUB can get it together to the extent of having a quorum, enabling them to actually vote on something. How is the Union Board to entice students back on campus at night, when it can't even entice its own memebrs into the meeting room?

One may say that the function of the Board is trivial. This is simply not true, because the CUB budget is over twice as large as the SGA budget. Perhaps one of the major differences of the SGA, which has the interest of the student body, and the CUB is the fact that the President is rewarded for his duties to the tune of $1,920 — better known as a full scholarship, while the CUB chairperson is the recipient of no financial remuneration. This must be the case, as three of the four presently unpaid CUB officers are running for the paid SGA offices. This writer does not want to take anything away from his fellow CUB members, as some of them have done work over and above the call of duty, even though the others didn't bother to attend even a few of the meetings.

The CUB is now faced with two possible alternatives. The first would be to abolish itself and leave all the decision making up to the social coordinator, who could collaborate at times with a few students who might be willing to share their opinions with her. The second alternative is for the college to provide officers of the CUB with scholarships, much the same way as is now the policy with SGA officers. There are few people who are both capable and willing to do a good job when no compensation is offered.

Student Affairs Makes Offical Statement

Of Inter Fraternity Council Reactivation

The following is the official notice of reactivation of the Inter Fraternity Council. The notice was presented in the form of a letter to IFC President Bill Breen.

Your request that the Inter Fraternity Council be reactivated and recognized as a Saint Leo College organization has been approved. It is my understanding that the following provisions as outlined in your letter shall prevail.

Phi Delta Omega shall not be allowed to compete in the 1975 Greek Weekend games.

Phi Delta Omega shall have the privilege to compete in the IFC softball program, semester II 1974-75, without the right to earn points.

Phi Delta Omega shall be allowed to attend all social functions sponsored by the Inter Fraternity Council during 1975 Greek Week.

The Inter Fraternity Council Constitution has been amended to include all seven fraternities of the Saint Leo College community: Alpha Sigma Chi, Kappa Alpha Sigma, Kappa Theta, Phi Delta Omega, Phi Theta Chi, Sigma Beta, and Sigma Lambda.

The Inter Fraternity Council Constitution has also been amended to abide by all rules and regulations as listed in the Saint Leo College Handbook.

Phi Delta Omega shall be admitted as a full member of the Saint Leo College Inter Fraternity Council at the Saint Leo College Awards Banquet to be held April 3, 1975. As of this date, Phi Delta Omega shall be entitled to pursue and hold any Inter Fraternity Council executive position.

The conditions stated in your letter are acceptable to all parties concerned. Therefore, let it be resolved that the Inter Fraternity Council be reactivated immediately and enjoy all the privileges and benefits to which any recognized organization on campus would be entitled.

Allow me to extend my personal best wishes to the Brothers of all fraternities and my sincere pledge to promote the future success of the Inter Fraternity Council on campus. Let us all move forward with a positive sense of direction to make for a greater Saint Leo College. It is with a great deal of satisfaction that Saint Leo College officially reactivates the Inter Fraternity Council.

If I can be of any further assistance to you, please feel free to call upon me.

Sincerely, Louis J. O'Gorman, Vice President for Student Affairs.

Letter To The Editor

"Frater" Finds Greek Week Incomplete

Dear Editor:

I believe this annual "Greek Week" is a travesty on the real meaning of Greece who gave so much beauty to the world, not only in the perfection of the human body, but the perfection of the human mind.

An honest Greek Week, since we are supposed to be a liberal arts college, would incorporate strolling players on our campus, musicians, poetry readings, philosophical discussions, art forms — and many other aspects of the creativity of our students. The campus mall could be made a magnificent setting drawing together at a central spot the culmination of all the conceptions from the minds of students oriented toward the sales pitch of a liberal arts college.

Sincerely yours,

brother bernard osb

Saint Leo College Operating Budget

The following represents the projected operating budget of the college for the current fiscal year, 1974-1975. It should be noted that the figures below in no way indicate the actual revenues collected by the college, but rather are the basis upon which the college allocated the various departments funds for the current fiscal year. It must be understood by the reader that these figures represent projections made in February 1974. Actual revenue and expenditure figures may be more or less than the figures indicated.

In order that the reader may more easily comprehend this data, it was re-categorized to some extent. Whereas Records, Admissions, Vice President of Student Affairs, Director of Men and Director of Women were placed in "Student Services," they are reported under the heading of "General Administration." It was felt that a distinction should be drawn between those offices administering college policy and those providing students with a direct service.

Also recategorized under "General Administration" were the Vice President for Development, Public Information Office, Special Development Activities and President Emeritus, as these offices are more directly related to the administration than to "General Institutional." A distinction was drawn between institutional services such as the mail room and the computer center and fund raising.

The items "Varsity" which appeared under "Instructional" and "Athletic Scholarships" which was under "Student Aid" were put in a new category "Sports Programs" as one is directly related to the other in purpose and execution.

All other figures remain under their original category. Totals have been adjusted to reflect re-categorization of figures.

Scholarship Fund Established For Theater Majors

By Joy Shepherd

When one has a love of life and for young people and their proper education, it is only fitting when such an individual would establish a scholarship fund for college students majoring in theatre.

Mrs. Charles Cueto, presently a resident of San Antonio, an American whose late husband was an Industrial Engineer in the Domincan Republic, brought her only son, Charles Richard, from that country in 1956 to attend what, at that time, was the Saint Leo Prep School for boys. Her love for the school and its community spirit and for the rolling hills of Pasco County inspired her to build a home nearby and begin giving of herself and her knowledge to enrich the lives of the student body. She began with an introduction to proper English and to Spanish. Later her classes advanced into the Introduction to Art whereby she enlightened her students on the philosophy of man's search for the meaning of life and place in the universe as depicted by each new insight and awareness that he gains through his art forms.

After her many years of affiliation with Saint Leo College, Mrs. Cueto has once again given to the College, but this form of giving – although from the heart – is of a material nature. She has established an endowed scholarship fund to be known as the "Reneé Cueto Scholarship Fund" in the amount of $5,000. Mrs. Cueto intends to add to the corpus from time to time and will eventually have established the largest endowned scholarship at Saint Leo College. The interest therefrom will be used to assist the most deserving theatre major, with the first scholarship being awarded this fall.

Mrs. Cueto's son graduated at age 16 from the Prep School and continued in what had advanced into Saint Leo Junior College where he received his A.A. degree in 1962. After continuing his studies at other institutions, including the University of the Americas in Mexico City where he majored in Latin American affairs, he graduated in 1972 from Kirksville, Missouri Osteopathic College of Medicine and is presently finishing his residency in cardiology and internal medicine in Detroit, Michigan.

Senate Rejects Request For Lenten Prayer before Classes

By John Gallagher

College Chaplain Father Timothy Judd's request for 15 seconds to be set aside before each class for the purpose of silent, individualized Lenten prayer was brought before the Senate last Thursday. There was much discussion among the senators as to the need for this action. SGA President Jim Loiacono was quoted as saying, "This (the college) isn't a retreat." After more discussion, the Senate voted against supporting the proposed regulation.

The Senate also voted to abolish all campaign spending limitations for the upcoming SGA elections. It was felt that the limitations were unenforceable and too restrictive.

The Senate unanimously voted to allocate $1,500 to finance the Awards Banquet. Students who are on the meal plan will be admitted without charge to the banquet, while non-meal plan students will be charged $2.00 each. The Senate voted to supplement the Monarch's special election issue. It was felt that the issue was very important in informing the student body of the candidates and the issues. Without this supplement, the Monarch would not have been able to come out with the special election issue.

Senate members were selected for the elections committee, which will manage the SGA elections. The next Senate meeting is today at 4:00 p.m. in Selby. The public is welcome to attend.

SGA Elections Wednesday

Student Government Association elections will be held on Wednesday, March 19, from 9:00 to 3:30. Thursday, March 20, will be reserved for a runoff election should it become necessary. Elections will be held in the Student Center under the auspices of the Senate elections committee. All voting will be done on voting machines provided for the SGA's use through the courtesy of Pasco County's Election Supervisor Mary Morgan. Students will vote in class elections on the basis of the number of credit hours completed at this time.

No posters or other campiagn material will be allowed in the student center during the time of the general elections, according to a statement released by the SGA office last week. The statement also indicated that all campaign materials had to be removed from college property and properly disposed of by the candidates by March 22.

Candidates for all offices will have an opportunity to address the student body in the Activities Center at 7:00.

Oratorio Society And Choir To Preform

By Rose Lamm

The Oratorio Society and Choir of Saint Leo College, under the direction of Dr. Larry Sledge, will unite voices with the Community Chorus of the University of South Florida to perform "The Sacred Service" by Ernest Bloch. Prof. Jerald Reynolds, baritone, will chant the cantorial part. The Pinellas Youth Symphony will accompany the group.

The text is taken from "The Union Prayer Book for Jewish Worship." The work is a rich choral-orchestral combination. The score follows five parts of the Jewish service of worship. The rich, vibrant music laments "Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God, the Lord is One." The Hebrew words "Etz Chayim," chant a song of peace. The combination of orchestra and voices with the cantorial chanting produces an inspirational experience.

The first performance of "The Sacred Service," by the combined groups under the direction of Dr. Edward Priodor, will take place Sunday, March 16th at 3:00 p.m. in Congregation B'nai Israel, 301 59th Street N., St. Petersburg. A second performance will take place in the Saint Leo Abbey Church on Sunday, April 14th, at 8:15 p.m.

Prospective Female Students To Spend Weekend At St. Leo

The Association of Women Students and the admissions office are working together to sponsor a women's weekend for students who have applied to Saint Leo for the 75-76 school year. A variety of activities are planned for the weekend which was organized by Terry Chavez, A.W.S. President, Betty Burke of admissions, Sr. Mary Clare, Dean of Women, and Jim Loiacono, SGA President.

An informal buffet is planned Friday night in Marmion Cafeteria (guests are scheduled to arrive between 6:00 p.m. – 7:30 p.m.). A Coffeehouse get together will follow the dinner Friday.

Saturday, a gymnastics exhibition, put together by Ann Abel, will be presented prior to lunch. Loiacono and Vice President of Academic Affairs, Dr. Robert Peterson, will both be speaking at the luncheon. Divisional chairpersons will be available after lunch for conferences with the girls.

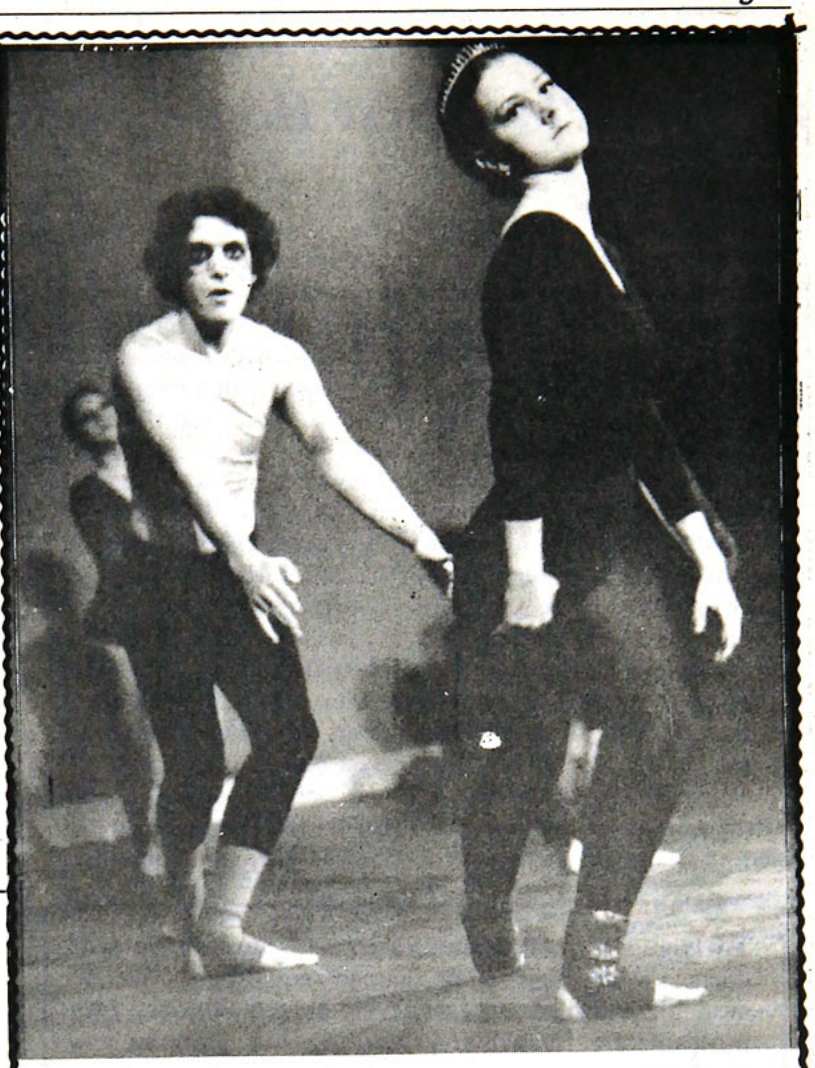
Saturday night there will be a dinner in Marmion Cafeteria and the girls will be addressed by President, Dr. Thomas B. Southard. A concert is tentatively planned following the dinner.

Sunday Mass will be held in the Abbey Church with songs and theme being prepared by Cindy Colclazier, Cyd Flemming and Fr. Tim Judd. Lunch will be served in Marmion cafeteria at noon, with a talk from Betty Burke, and a farewell from Terry Chavez. At 2:00 p.m. the bus will depart to take the girls to Tampa airport.

Tickets can be bought on two plans: Plan 1 – arrive Friday, April 4, and depart Sunday afternnon, April 6, cost $20.00. Plan 2 – arrive Saturday morning, April 5, and depart as above, cost $16.00.

Prices of the plans include room, transportation to and from the airport, and all meals.

Various organizations are working hard for the success of this weekend. Anyone who might be able to help out should contact Terry Chavez. Student support is needed to help make this weekend a success, and to continue it as an annual event at the college.



Dance Company's May Tour '75

By Bernard Aurentz

The May tour of the Saint Leo College Theatre and Dance departments will include Vero Beach May 12-16, performing at elementary and junior high schools. Workshops for drama students at junior and senior high school will also be arranged. Other performances are scheduled for New Port Richey, St. Petersburg Beach, Tampa, Fort Myers, and Inverness.

The cast comprises 12 selected students from the Theatre and Dance Company. On the program is a Children's Theatre, Young People's Dance Concert, and the religious dance drama, "Moses' Song" from "Israel in Egypt," an oratorio by George Frederic Handel.

Dennis Henry, Director of Theatre, and Lois Henry, Director of Dance, guide the tour, now in its third year. Last year the company played to over 8,000 students and adults across the state.

Batters Play First Home Game

By Jude Michael Ryan

The Saint Leo baseball team began its season recently and for the first time could claim their own field to play on.

In a game played on Tuesday, March 4, Dr. Southard and Mr. Richmond threw out the first balls to officially open the field. Dr. Southard cited the high cost of renting a field in Dade City as the major reason for the new "College Field." He also credited Mr. Richmond for his efforts in having the field ready for play this season. In spite of Mr. Richmond's work, the field still has some problems. The outfield is not in great shape and, when it rains, the water has a tendency to sit on top of the ground.

As far as actual playing is concerned, the team has gotten off to a less than auspicious start this season with a record of 2 and 8. One reason for this is some defensive weakness, although Tony Piccolini has been consistent at shortstop. Offensively, the team has been scoring runs, led by Dan Boyd who has come up with clutch hits.

In spite of their weak start, the Monarchs will undoubtedly have a good record because they do have plenty of talent on the team. The team beat U.S.F.'s Bahmans by a score of 2-0 in eleven innings. U.S.F. had been unbeaten before their duel with the Monarchs.
